

VMware Increases Efficiency by 8X

VMware, the leading provider of multi-cloud services for enterprises, is on a mission to create One VMware – an effort that would help standardize the organization globally, so teams everywhere can move faster, and operate more efficiently on a central platform. They partnered with ClickUp to bring the vision to life.

ClickUp Use Case

Project Management & Company-Wide Productivity

5+ tools consolidated in one central platform

8X faster project set-up and reporting

95% time savings for building QBR assets

The problem

- ✓ Project requests were scattered across email, Slack, meetings, and other channels
- ✓ Limited visibility across teams and leadership created friction in reporting and goal tracking
- ✓ Teams had disconnected workflows leading to messy handoffs and delays

"We wanted a single intake platform, and we found that with ClickUp. We partnered to make everything work. We developed global standardizations ... [and made] tracking & decision-making really quick and transparent."

Teresa Sothcott, Manager,
Project Management Office

The solution with ClickUp

Faster execution with automated workflows

- Project intake & prioritization improved 8x.
- Automations eliminate busy work and keep everyone focused on high-value work.
- Templates helped the team save time and reinforce standardization across the business.

Smarter data-driven decision making

- Teams can execute faster with full context into all projects.
- Leadership can make informed decisions based on data.
- Dashboards visualize performance for better alignment on KPIs.

Establishing a source of truth for all work

- With collaboration, work, and reporting all in one place the team can build repeatability at scale.
- "The team loves that we have one tool. Now, we have peace of mind in knowing we have the right information. This is our single source of truth." – Teresa Sothcott
